An "Occurrence Form" policy means you are protected for your lifetime for events that occur during the term of coverage.

Even if you are covered under your employer's policy, you may be named individually in a suit. Therefore, you may be liable for your own negligence and all or part of a plaintiff's award or settlement. With your own policy, you will have your own legal counsel and your own limits.

The coverage is portable. You can keep the same protection from employer to employer because it follows your career.

Defendant's Reimbursements = Pays per suit for time and expenses associated with your attendance at a trial or arbitration hearing. The suit or proceedings must be caused by an injury covered by the policy.

Defense Costs = Legal fees and court costs involving claims or allegations covered by the policy will be paid on your behalf at no additional cost.

Defense Costs for Licensing Board and Civil Investigations = Defense coverage per year will be provided for civil investigations and/or licensing board disciplinary actions from rendering of professional services.

Supplemental Liability = Pays for any legal liability, up to the policy limit for bodily injury or property damage which occurred while you were rendering professional services.

Medical Payments = Pays aggregate, for x years after the accident for necessary medial expenses caused by bodily injury on your premises.

First Aid = Pays for incurred expenses, for first aid to others for an injury covered by the policy. The first aid must be given within 48 hours of the injury.

Damage to Property of Others = Pays per occurrence for damage you cause to others' property while it is in your care.
